2.0 Statistical highlights about the arts in Ontario⁴

- In 2006, there were 56,900 artists in Ontario, representing 0.81% of the overall provincial labour force. This number is slightly higher than the Canadian average (0.77%).
- Between 1991 and 2006, the number of artists in Ontario increased by 44%. The rate of growth in the number of artists was higher between 1991 and 2001 (33%) than between 2001 and 2006 (8%).
- In 2006, the median earnings of artists in Ontario were $13,900, less than half of the typical earnings of all Ontario workers ($29,300).
- In 2006, of nine arts occupation groups, musicians and singers represent the largest group in Ontario with 13,500 people reporting earnings, followed by authors and writers (10,900), producers, directors, choreographers and related occupations (9,200), artisans and craftspersons (6,500), and visual artists (6,300).
- Ontarians spent $10.2 billion on cultural goods and services in 2005, 41% of the Canadian total. Cultural spending represents 3% of total consumer spending in the province. The $10.2 billion in consumer spending on culture is over three times larger than the $3 billion spent on culture in Ontario by all levels of government in 2003-04. At $851 per resident, Ontarians' per capita cultural spending is third among the provinces.
- In 2005, the three most popular cultural and heritage activities in Ontario were: reading newspapers (88% of the population 15 or older); listening to music on CD's, cassette tapes, DVD audio discs, records, etc. (83%); and watching a video (rented, purchased, VHS or DVD formats) (80%).
- In 2005, 43% of Ontarians 15 or older (4.31 million residents) attended a concert or performance by professional artists of music, dance, theatre or opera (excluding cultural festivals). This is slightly higher than the Canadian rate of 41%.

Examples of Canada Council funding in Ontario⁵

The Canada Council supports the endeavours of professional artists and arts organizations through its programs. The following selection illustrates the scope of the activities supported by the Canada Council in Ontario.

First-time grant applicant and recipient Jean Marshall received a $16,000 grant through the Aboriginal Traditional Visual Art Forms Program for Individuals to develop and create a project entitled A Story on Its Own, a beadwork project using beads and textiles. Birds are the central theme of this work, for they symbolize freedom and independence. As an Ojibway woman from the Big Trout Lake First Nation, Marshall is strongly influenced by her roots, and her beadwork reflects a desire to preserve culture and share knowledge with others. The artist hopes that her success will inspire other First Nations artists in and around Thunder Bay, Ont., to pursue their artistic interests.

In 2008-09, Janice Andrews of Lanark, Ont., received $2,500 to perform as a storyteller at the inaugural Tasmanian International Storytelling Festival in Hobart, Australia, through the Travel Grants to Professional Writers program. Under the theme The Festival of Seven Dreams, participants took part in a number of forums, workshops, and performances that emphasized traditional folk material and the need to revive storytelling as a contemporary art form. During her performances, Andrews told stories about her immigration to Canada, discussing both the joys and hardships of coming to a new land. In retrospect, the artist reported that the Festival inspired her to continue sharing her personal experiences with broad and diverse audiences.

Through the Aboriginal Peoples Collaborative Exchange: International program, Toronto's Kaha:wi Dance Theatre (KDT) received a grant of $26,000 to travel to Yohohama, Japan, for workshops and performances alongside the Japanese youth group Ainu Rebels in the fall of 2009. Inspired by contemporary and traditional Aboriginal dance forms, KDT's mission is to create, present, and promote Aboriginal artistic expression through music, storytelling, and theatre. During the exchange, some cast members took part in dance and music workshops, while others explored innovative movement techniques and methodologies for creating contemporary work. Through this collaboration, KDT hopes to reveal strong new connections between Canada and Japan as both dance groups seek to honour and celebrate the integrity of Aboriginal culture.

⁵ Unless otherwise indicated, project descriptions and quotations are drawn from documents in the grant application.

A total of $5,000 was awarded to Shakespeare Link Canada, a non-profit organization based in Toronto, through the Artists and Community Collaboration Program in Theatre to assist with the costs of producing a Shakespeare performance workshop for street youth at the Evergreen Drop-In Centre. The six-week project took place in spring 2009, and introduced at-risk youth to the power of Shakespeare by exploring emotions through text and improvisation in a non-confrontational and non-judgemental setting. The Shakespeare Link project served as an excellent artistic opportunity for participating youth to feel empowered, involved, important, and motivated. Organizers hope that this community outreach initiative will inspire a new appreciation for Shakespeare and a new view on the relevance of his plays in modern society.

Toronto's Tafelmusik Baroque Orchestra was awarded $50,000 through the International Touring Assistance in Music program to create and produce a multidisciplinary performance. The performance, entitled Galileo Project: Music of the Sphere, was co-produced with the Banff Centre, and is set to tour through the United States in February 2010. As a creative community outreach collaboration, the Galileo Project will explore the power of music and its ability to animate and transform human understanding of the heavens. Tafelmusik hopes to use this initiative to stimulate and challenge its performers to aspire to even higher standards, while entertaining and engaging a broad range of local, national and international audiences. Recent presentations of the Galileo Project have so enthralled the Canadian Astronomy Society that they convinced the International Astronomy Society to immortalize the organization by naming a recently discovered asteroid "Tafelmusik."

Through the Media Arts Commissioning Program, the Toronto Animated Image Society (TAIS) received a $69,200 grant to commission 11 Canadian animators to create abstract films as part of the project entitled XI IN MOTION: Abstract Expressions in Animation. TAIS is a non-profit group dedicated to exploring, promoting, and supporting the art of animation. During the project, animators will create vibrant animated films based on the works of the Canadian Painters Eleven. The completed films are set to premiere at Cinematheque Ontario in Toronto in November 2009. Through this project, TAIS hopes to honour the works of Canadian visual artists and bring a new understanding of the art form. For the participating animators, the initiative provided an excellent opportunity to continue developing their unique animation style.

With a $2,000 grant from the Professional Development Travel Grants for Culturally Diverse Artists program, Sharada Eswar of Brampton, Ont., travelled to Chennai, India to participate in a ten-week residency with storyteller Vishakha Hari, focusing on exploring the Harikatha tradition of storytelling. Inspired by the Indian repertoire of myths, fables and folk tales, Eswar hopes her residency with the accomplished Indian artist will enable her to complete A Story and a Song, a storytelling project which celebrates cultural diversity and social justice by merging oral storytelling with theatrical and performing arts. Through this project, Eswar aims to illustrate the joy of traditional storytelling to future generations through active participation, and inspire confidence and pride in South Asia's cultural heritage.

First-time grant applicant, London Poetry Slam was awarded $3,000 through the Writing and Publishing section's Spoken Word and Storytelling Program to present a monthly poetry series from September 2008 to June 2009. The poetry competition featured poets from the London, Ont., region, as well as guest poets from across Canada and abroad. This project offered artists an opportunity to perform their work and created a supportive, peer-oriented environment for participants to hone their artistic craft. While spoken word events have only recently seen a revival, organizers hoped the poetry series would serve an important role in developing and maintaining a community of involved spoken word artists.

As the 2008 winner of the Governor Generals' Literary Awards in the category of Fiction, Nino Ricci of Toronto was awarded $25,000 for his book The Origin of the Species, published by Doubleday Canada. The narrative follows Alex Fratarcangeli, a modern Prufrock, who must survive in the multiethnic complexity of Montreal in the 1980s. Of the book, the jury wrote: "Told in windowpane prose, this story reads as if it has come up through our collective memory. With the shock of recognition, we gain a new understanding of our fragility and our strength." Ricci is also the author of Testament (2002), winner of the Trillium Award, and of the trilogy of novels Lives of the Saints (1990), In a Glass House (1993), and Where She Has Gone (1997).

In 2008-09, Keys to the Studio, a Toronto-based music program, received $14,500 through the Music section's Artists and Community Collaboration Program for a collaborative project between musicians and youth with intellectual and developmental disabilities. The initiative is aimed at facilitating self-expression through the creation of original music. Over the course of the 24-week project, participating youth were exposed to a variety of instruments, improvisation, composition, and performance techniques as a means to find the unique music within each individual. The Keys to the Studio project enables participating professionals, community members and the general public to appreciate a person's talent separately from his or her disability, and has the potential to make a difference in everyday life for the participants.

Yves Candau, a first-time grant applicant and recipient, was awarded $750 from the Travel Grants to Dance Professionals program to teach and perform at the International Contact Festival in Freiburg, Germany, in August 2008. Contact improvisation is an open form of dance, with no established curriculum or schools, and exists solely through the lives and work of its practitioners. The Freiburg festival created a rich environment to share and explore the global evolution of the form, a vital element to keep such a dance form alive. For Candau, the event was an important opportunity to gain a more conscious understanding of movement patterns within the improvised context of contact dance. This has inspired him with renewed passion and enthusiasm to develop the dance form in Toronto and elsewhere in Canada.

Tottenham's Emilie Corbiere, an award-winning traditional bead-worker and author, received $5,000 from the Grants to Aboriginal Writers, Storytellers and Publishers program to work on a children's book entitled Porcupine Goes to the City. The owner of a small publishing company, Corbiere noticed the shortage of an Aboriginal presence within children's books and consequently wrote Porcupine's Bad Day: An English-Ojibwe Story (2006), an illustrated book encouraging young readers to value the forest and the environment. For her second narrative, Corbiere plans to introduce children to the Ojibwe language in an educational and child-friendly manner.

Through the Theatre Production Project Grants for Emerging Artists program, Waawaate Fobister of Ottawa received $12,000 to assist with the costs of developing and producing Pawaajigun, an original play/dance/theatre production, which was performed in April 2008 in Kenora, Ont. Fobister used the Ojibwe language to cater to family audiences within Aboriginal communities across Northern Ontario. For those who had experienced the residential school system, the performance was particularly moving, as the majority of Elders had never before heard their language being valued and spoken proudly. The younger generations were equally touched by the performance, as they were drawn in by the storytelling and expressive dance. Fobister personally expressed his delight that his work made such an important impact on the residents of Kenora.

Toronto's Centre for Aboriginal Media was awarded a $4,000 grant through the Elder/Youth Legacy Program: Support for Aboriginal Artistic Practices to present the Elder/Youth Media Production & Storytelling Exchange project at the imagineNATIVE film + Media Arts Festival (October, 2008), which is run by the Centre. The exchange consisted of a series of workshops and activities directed towards cultivating the creativity and artistic talent of Aboriginal youth. Under the guidance of celebrated artists Lisa Meeches and Duke Redbird, emerging media artists had the unique opportunity to learn, strengthen, and develop their craft of storytelling and media production within a contemporary context. With over 200 youth participating, the exchange allowed for new partnerships between urban Aboriginal organizations and First Nations communities. The Centre plans to develop more youth-focused programs in the near future.

Mary Anne Barkhouse of Minden, Ont., was awarded a $19,500 grant through the Assistance to Visual Artists: Project Grants program to conduct research on concepts of eschatology (religious beliefs concerning the end of the world) and fauna in Aboriginal culture, as a means to develop a new work. The primary focus of this project will consider the mythological and cultural traditions of the Kwakiutl First Nations. Barkhouse will incorporate her research findings into the production of new bronze sculptures and mixed-media installations, some of which will be included in exhibitions such as Homeland & Security at Render Gallery in Waterloo (planned for late 2009). As noted by Barkhouse, the final results of this project will strengthen her artistic portfolio and will lead to future national and international exhibiting opportunities.

A $10,000 grant was awarded to Planet in Focus: Toronto Environmental Film and Video Festival through the Artists and Community Collaboration Program to present a media arts project entitled Youth, Camera, Action, an outreach youth workshop, in August 2008. A not-for-profit organization, Planet in Focus has a mandate to showcase and promote outstanding, compelling works in all genres, focusing on environmental themes and subjects by Canadian and international filmmakers. This outreach project provided participating youth with the necessary training, tools, information, and inspiration to use video to express themselves and their ideas. The final films were screened in front of a live audience in October 2008 as part of the ninth annual Planet in Focus festival.

A Music Touring Grant of $20,000 was awarded to Hilario Duran and his trio to undertake a coast-to-coast Canadian tour as part of the Summer Jazz Festival from June to September 2008. With bassist Roberto Occhipinti and drummer Mark Kelso, Duran's expressive musical ensemble, currently based in Toronto, seeks to represent and share the new style of music "new Danzon." This music is a mix of Duran's rich Cuban heritage blended with more contemporary Afro-Cuban music. The tour offered an excellent opportunity for the trio to share their unique sounds with diverse Canadian audiences which, for Duran, became an expression of his lifelong dreams and cultural identity.

4.0 Overall arts and culture funding to Ontario by all three levels of government⁶

- Arts and culture funding to Ontario from all three levels of government stood at about $3.1 billion in 2006-07 (the latest year of overall data from Statistics Canada).
